The one hundred and twentieth annual meeting of the Willimantic County Medical Society was held Thursday afternoon, at the Hotel Harker, in the city being presided over by a dinner which was served at 1 o'clock. Twenty-two physicians were present. Dr. Fred M. Smith of Willimantic presided at the business meeting which included reports of the semi-annual meeting in April, and reports from the delegates. Papers were read by Dr. Ernest A. Wells of Hartford, "Is There Room for an Optimist in the Cancer Question?" Dr. S. B. Overlock of Portland, "The Open Reduction of Fractures," which was illustrated by stereoscopic views. Dr. W. H. Johnson delivered a lecture on Dr. George Barnes, a member of the association who died recently. The meeting closed soon after 2 o'clock.

Local business men, directors of the Willimantic chamber of commerce, and those of the Willimantic Rotary club, are to meet in joint session, tonight (Friday) when relief plans will be discussed in the event that the impending railroad strike materializes. Committees are to be formed, the number of motor trucks available for use, and the amount of food products now in the city. Everything possible will be done to get Willimantic prepared, if the strike begins as scheduled on the first day of November. Just how long Willimantic could stand the lack of transportation facilities, that being residents their daily needs is not known; but the strike brings the question to every door, and although the business men and manufacturers of the city are interested in doing what they can to prevent any serious disturbance of living conditions, and working conditions, they feel that the public at large should work with them to prepare for whatever may come. At present most of the manufacturing plants in the city and in towns surrounding Willimantic are well supplied with stocks of coal and materials with which to operate their mills. How long they could continue running after a railroad strike begins is not known, and this again will affect the entire populace of this section of the state.
